

Wayne Knight
January 9, 1951 – June 18, 2007

Wayne went to elementary school at Cloverdale and Jr. High at Young Junior High School. Most of the classmates that went to Cloverdale and Young Junior will remember Wayne. Wayne's funeral was Aug 31, 2007. He's survived by 2 daughters, Stephanie & Hannah & 2 granddaughters, Helen & Jane (Stephanie's girls). He was the godfather to both of Debbie Hendrickson O'Toole's sons, Andrew Price & Matthew Price.

This is an old photo of Wayne on his beloved 75th Anniversary Edition Harley, taken in the late '90s...he didn't like having his picture made, so Debbie O'Toole had this photo and shared it with me. Thank you for providing the photo and the information I am making available to our classmates, Debbie.

Wayne came back to Dothan in the late '80s and opened Poplar Head Mule Company Pub & Grill. After he closed it, he went to Florida for awhile (his father lived in Palm Beach) and then returned to Dothan in the early '00s. He got a divorce, then stayed with Debbie O'Toole for a little while in '05 but left again for Florida...that's where he was when he died.

There was no notice put in the Dothan paper & no memorial service in Dothan. His daughters arranged for him to be buried at Arlington National Cemetery & Debbie O'Toole's brother took her there for the funeral. (A most somber place, but I'd recommend visiting there if you haven't...it is amazing). It was very, very sad for Debbie. She said she misses him absolutely everyday, which is why you'll see his headstone posted her Facebook profile often. The Photo of the Arlington National Cemetery Marker was taken for Debbie by a friend of her brother who works at the Pentagon. It was several months later when the headstone was placed. A sweet couple went there & placed the yellow roses on his grave and he sent her the photos.
